Mrs. Blacksmith,

Thank you for the opportunity to respond to these allegations.

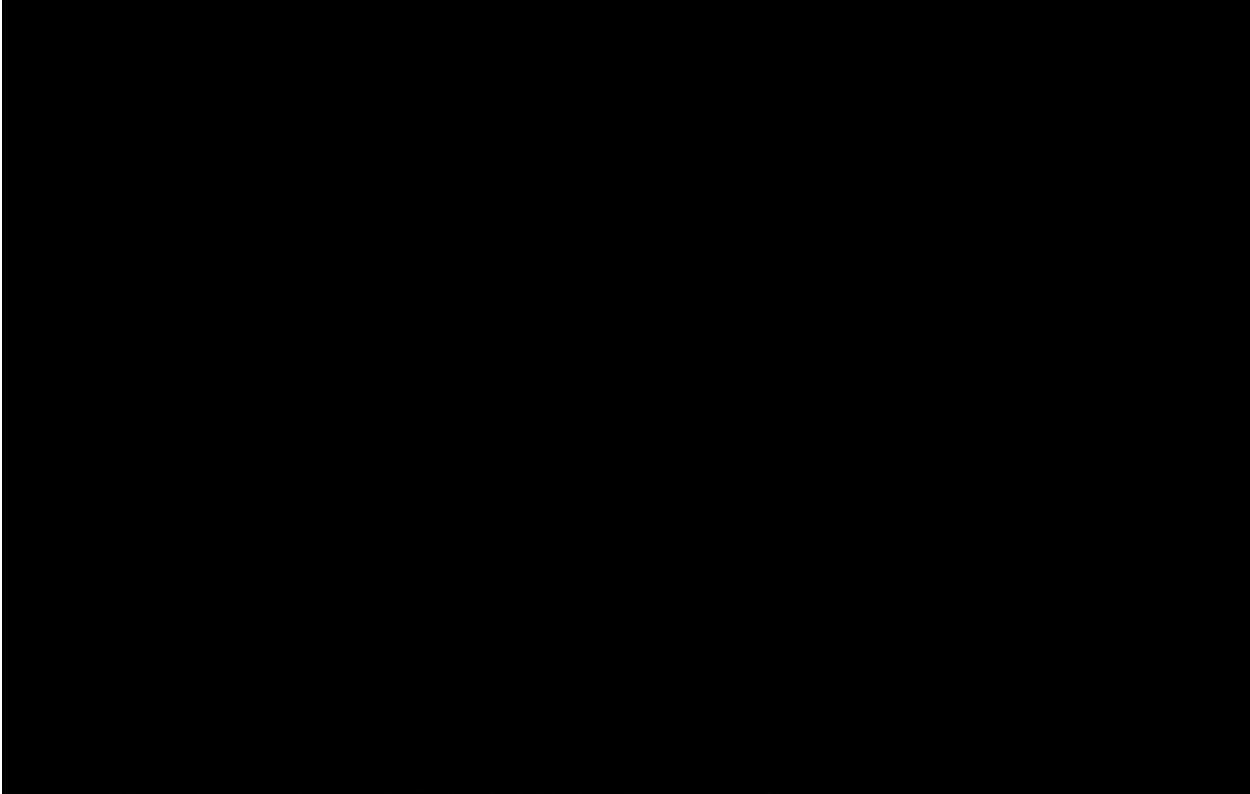

It was a series of unfortunate miscommunications and a poor choice of words that led to the September 27th article referenced in the complaint. A correction had already been initiated and was printed in the most recent newspaper on October 11, 2018. (This newspaper prints every other week.) Please see the attached snapshot.

The campaign signs are not stored at a public building.

The campaign signs were purchased on a personal credit card and not with public funds.

I contacted your office about a month ago to ensure I was current on the laws and guidelines and have followed your kind education on these matters.

Please feel free to contact me at any time if I can provide any further information.
