

Tom Taylor

Hello,

I understand there was a complaint against my campaign for not reporting.

First, I called the PDC repeatedly prior to the Primary Election, asking them if I was required to submit any documents (namely the C-3 and/or C-4 forms). Among the people I talked to, I was told specifically that because I had not taken campaign donations, I would not have to send in any forms. If there is any violation or if I was mistaken about something, it is directly due to the misleading advice and information from the PDC that I relied upon.

Furthermore, I am concerned about the PDC administration. I sent two letters to amend my campaign to mini-reporting, the first of which has apparently disappeared (the second one I certified to prove it had been sent). Not only that, there has been an apparent lack of response to my emails by the PDC about any of this. I am concerned that the PDC may lack the political impartiality that we expect them to maintain.

That aside, I will state the following about campaign funding. I was given a check for $200 and was offered $250, both of which I turned down. I have taken $0 in campaign funding. As for spending, I have spent my own money on the filing fee.

Tom Taylor