Hello Phil,

Facebook page: it is my personal page for staying in touch with my constituents. It is not connected in anyway to any City web page or social media account nor do I access the page on City property or using City equipment. When the campaign season began I just naturally slipped into using it for campaign posts. I am a City Councilman so it seemed natural to name the page as such. To avoid confusion in the future I changed the name to "Re-reelect Ed Pace."

Photo: The City did not pay a photographer to take it. As I recall it was taken in about two or three minutes by a City employee. It is not copy righted and, according to the Deputy City Attorney, the City as no financial or other interest in it. It is on the City website and the City does not care if it is copied.

1 - As I recall, I copied the photo from a newspaper article that was shared on Facebook.

2 - No. No one is required to pay for photos on the City website.

3 - Yes. The public is welcome to copy photos from the City website.

Best Regards,

Ed Pace, Councilman
City of Spokane Valley
